Aliah University Annual Anti-Ragging Report

Academic Year: 2022-2023

Aliah University is committed to fostering a safe, inclusive environment for all students, strictly enforcing a zero-tolerance policy on ragging in accordance with UGC guidelines and legal requirements. The Anti-Ragging Committee recently held an orientation for new students, emphasizing the university's anti-ragging policies and the importance of maintaining a respectful campus culture.

To strengthen this commitment, the university conducted an Anti-Ragging Day awareness program from 2022 to 2023. This included displaying posters and banners across campus to highlight the serious consequences of ragging. Furthermore, all students and their guardians signed affidavits pledging compliance with anti-ragging regulations. Surveillance measures, such as CCTV in critical campus areas, were also implemented to enhance security, while each department appointed a faculty mentor to support and guide new students. A dedicated email has been established to ensure that incidents can be reported promptly and effectively.

These initiatives have played a crucial role in promoting a ragging-free campus, and the Anti-Ragging Committee remains dedicated to enhancing its efforts and introducing additional resources to uphold this standard of safety and inclusivity.
