Concept Note

Educational innovations are emerging in India in order to increase economic growth and to strengthen and protect democratic values of life and also to achieve equality, human rights, women rights, etc. Innovation is usually defined as the introduction of new uses and techniques that are useful for the society. Schools and Institutions carry experimentation in order to overcome the difficulty and thereby increase the efficiency as the responsibility of the teacher in making the students to realize their dreams, potential and making them a responsible citizen has increased.

The education sector in India has witnessed many developments over the past few years. Be it the introduction of the New Education Policy (NEP) 2020 or the pandemic-induced transition to online learning, there is an ongoing large-scale churn in the way teaching and learning are conducted, placing the sector on the precipice of change. Even before the pandemic happened, traditional methods such as the one-way mode of pedagogy, where teachers spoke and students listened for hours on end, were facing serious questions about their effectiveness. Thus this seminar focuses on the changes taking place and new ways of adopting them.

Keynote Speaker

Professor Hrushikesh Senapaty
Professor, RIE, NCERT, Bhubaneswar
Former Principal, RIE, NCERT, Bhopal
Former Director, NCERT, New Delhi.
