Editorial

"Reverdi," is a type of simple lyric celebrating the return of spring after the harshness of winter. It is a variation in the common form of medieval French lyric. It became widespread in English as well. Chaucer's celebration of the spring as a time of the reassuring return of vegetation and fertility, and of the sun in The Canterbury Tales is a continuation of this tradition of little songs going back to the earliest antiquity. Spring 2022 is a time in which we celebrated with full-throated ease the return to normalcy after the stifling time of dark pandemic days.

This newsletter encapsulates this successful transition, highlighting a return to a traditional academic setting while valuing lessons learned from the online learning phase. The blended approach facilitated dynamic learning experiences, featuring interactive classroom discussions, hands-on laboratory sessions, and continuous access to digital resources. Throughout the semester, there was a palpable sense of renewed engagement and a vibrant shift towards interactive learning methodologies. This issue foregrounds such achievements and accolades, showcasing the dedication and excellence ingrained in our academic culture. While lengthy, these listings stand as a testament to the university's commitment to serious academic pursuits.

We must thank NAAC team and other offices and departments of the University who have provided data based on which the Newsletter is prepared. Finally, we express our sincerest gratitude to the Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor and the Registrar for their leadership. Their commitment to progress aligns with Abraham Lincoln's famous words, "The best thing about the future is that it comes one day at a time." The Aliah University Newsletter represents a continuous journey of progress. With each edition, we aim to build upon the previous successes and refine our communication strategies, reflecting the University's dedication to constant evolution.

FROM THE VICE-CHANCELLOR'S DESK

I am happy to announce on behalf of the entire University that we have successfully brought out the Spring 2022 issue of the Aliah University Newsletter. Every year this biannual newsletter carries the message of success and efforts of the Aliah fraternity to the wider world. The stories of success and innovation come from all the faculties, from science and technology to languages and humanities, nursing, management, and law. It is a privilege to be a part of this wide array of intellectual activities that are being done in the aegis of the Aliah University. This institution of higher learning which dates back to the colonial era, then known as the Calcutta Madrasah, is blending modernity and tradition as is evident from this newsletter that catalogues research articles, projects, patents, and many more. The glory and accolades of encourage the teachers and the students to devote themselves to the development of the University and each personal achievement is the laurel of the University. The hard work and perseverance of the teaching and the taught is indeed praiseworthy and I sincerely hope they will become inspirations to the coming generations.

From the newsletter, it can be seen that many students are getting placed in prestigious companies and many scholars are getting into renowned institutions in India and abroad thereby making Aliah known to the world. The research works in science and technology are benefitting the future of mankind and helping to build a cleaner and greener environment. This newsletter is also a way of recognizing these achievements by the university.

I heartily congratulate the Publication committee for successfully bringing out this newsletter and also thank NAAC committee, different offices and departments for helping them with the necessary data for the same. This togetherness is the spirit we should all strive to nurture for the well being of the university and the nation as a whole.
